STAY PLUGGED

Play

Campers will play the popular esports game Rocket League, currently being broadcasted on ESPN. They will start with the basics of the game and practice each day and have dedicated coaching time with collegiate and professional Rocket League coaches. Campers will also participate in a camp tournament held on the final day of camp.

Learn

Each day campers will have a dedicated learning session to better understand esports and gaming, and the right and healthy way to game. They will be learning from the Stay Plugged In curriculum that has been formed through collaboration with doctors, players, coaches, as well as other esports companies.

Topics covered will be:
Health and Wellness
Production
Casting
Content Creation
Social Media

Produce

At the conclusion of the camp the final project will be a full esports event fully produced by the campers. They will use their newly gained knowledge from the educational portion of the camp to put on an in-house tournament for themselves. Campers will run it all from casting and producing to the public to marketing the event on social media to playing in the event.
